MAXIMUM MARKS	75

Attempt any THREE questions.

All the questions carry 25 marks each.

Q1. The Creativity Quotient (CQ) is now accepted as a constituent of human intelligence and many eminent psychologists have attempted to find a valid and reliable way to measure it. Describe some of the criteria that have been used to measure creativity and give your opinion on whether this kind of measurement can accurately determine how creative an individual is. Give reasons to support your answer.

Q2. Define the following tropes / figures of speech and then use each one in a piece of creative writing, to illustrate your definition in about 750-1000 words:

Simile, Symbol, Alliteration, Formal Language, Archaism.

Q3. What are the main features of children's literature? How does a story for children differ from one for adults? Answer in about 750-1000 words giving examples.

Q4. Imagine a conversation taking place between two friends sitting in a café, discussing overuse of sensationalism in the media. They almost come to a fight while taking divergent views on the topic but their fight is resolved by the owner of the café who professes moderate views. Write a short dramatic script describing the characters, setting and dialogue, in about 750-1000 words.

Q5. Writing reviews is a very useful skill and demands a lot of attention to detail. It also entails a thorough understanding of the object of the review and a fair and objective approach to it. Along with this, keeping the reader in mind is also an important consideration. With these criteria in mind, write a review in about 750-1000 words, of a book you have recently read or a film/web series that you have recently watched.

Q6. The paragraph given below requires proof reading and editing before it can be put out in the public domain. Proof read and edit it and then write out the final paragraph.

I does well on college, and peepul thinks I am smart because of it. But it's not true. In fact, one years ago I struggle in colleges. However, two month ago I decide to get seriously about college and made a few changes. First, I decided I would become interested in whatever be teached, regardless of what other people think or says. I also decided I would work hardly every day and never give up on any assignment. I decided to never, never fall ahead. Finally, I decided to make college a priority under friends and fun. After this changesimplement, I became an active partipant in classroom discussions. Then my test scores began to arise and I start doing badly.
